

This is the story of Pride Neilsen. Pride was born in Manchester, England on June 19, 1996. Born as the son of Polly and Asethys Neilsen, young Pride showed early signs of possible genius. At the age of four, Pride learned how to distinguish between specific frequencies of sound, and later developed a higher-pitched voice as a result. When he was twelve years old, he met his best friend, Edgar Chronis. Despite the fact that Edgar was seven years older than Pride, he didn't seem to mind. Their friendship lasted for 2 years, until they hit a rough patch. They swore to each other that they would never meet again.

Nine years later, on February 21, Edgar and Pride met back together and buried the hatchet. At this point, it should be noted, that Pride had changed his name a total of three times, while Edgar changed his name once. It is unclear why both of them changed their names. Pride later went into psychotherapy for unknown reasons and now works as a colleague of Edgar to study mysteries.
